

Composite Doors

Superb looks. Superb performance.

For the look and feel of solid timber, a composite door is the obvious choice.

Matching frames, charming glass patterns and sophisticated hardware disguise the rugged strength and security of the composite and make it a focal point of the home.

A composite door combines all the aesthetic benefits of painted or varnished timber with the security, performance, low maintenance and long life expectancy of modern materials.

Colour choices

It's brilliant to have white and you'll be the envy of your neighbours with green. You can be happy with the blues, brave by being yellow and, for once, you'll profit from being in the red.

We're giving everyone a golden opportunity to show their true colours and give their home real character by choosing from hundreds of finishes, including an array of wood-grain foils, over 150 colour options and a selection of metallic coatings. So even if it's grey outside, new doors will reinvigorate any home and make it stand out from the street.
